THE CLOSE CORPORATIONS ACT / SECTION 42 AND 43 (PAGE 1)

So have you guys been to this week's Com law class? Yip. Loved it. Really enjoyed this section of the work. Errm, really Cole? I didn't understand a thing that was said in class. I know she tried to explain the duties that members in a CC have, but that's about it. Come on! It's not that difficult. Okay hotshot, why don't you explain it to us, because I was lost in class. I know there are two sections, and that's about it.

Okay, let's start at the beginning. Remember that these duties are found in the Close Corporations Act. So if you want to know what the exact wording is, just go to the section 42 and 43 of the Act.

There are two duties that a member owes to the CC. So let's use an example. Imagine that the four of us are members of a CC. Let's call it ABCD CC. We each hold equal members interest and the CC manufactures carpets.

Easy-to-use interface

LexisNexis PassPlus delivers an accessible user-centric interface that fully engages students and solves real-world teaching challenges. The easy-to-use interface ensures that nothing gets in the way of your instruction or your students' learning.

No more admin headaches

Do you find yourself losing valuable lecture time to the extensive creation and review of homework or the administration of quizzes and tests? PassPlus frees you up to do what you do best.

Questions 1

1. Betty CC is an exclusive fashion house that designs wedding dresses. The members of the CC are Cathy, Miraglia, Galina and Betty. Each member contributed equally to the CC, and each holds a 25% member's interest. The basic term agreement with all members has agreed to specifically require that "Cathy" be the only member who will be responsible for the design of the CC's dresses. Cathy is a member of the CC and she has a contract with Betty to purchase a silk material for $100,000. Discuss whether or not the CC is bound to such a contract.

2. Section 42 states that the scope of the transaction is important in determining whether or not the contract is binding. The scope of the transaction is important in determining whether or not the contract is binding. The scope of the transaction is important in determining whether or not the contract is binding.
